Enjoy a special musical performance by BMI artist Angie Aparo

Sony publishing Artist Angie Aparo is the song writing talent behind Faith Hill's 'Cry' (for which Hill won a Grammy) and 'Big Time' by Big & Rich. Aparo was signed by Clive Davis at Arista records in 2000, releasing 'The American' which led to Aparo supporting a U.S. tour and sharing the stage with the likes of Matchbox 20, Faith Hill and Edwin McCain.

In 2005 Angie Aparo appeared on Faith Hill's NBC Thanksgiving Special singing 'Cry' with Hill and catching the attention of producer Dann Huff (Keith Urban, Rascal Flatts). Huff would go on to produce Aparo's 2006 release, El Primero Del Tres.

Aparo penned two songs on Tim McGraw's 2012 release 'Emotional Traffic', namely; 'The One' and 'Only Human' (which McGraw recorded as a duet with R&B artist, Ne-Yo). Also in 2012, Aparo appeared on Zac Brown's album/DVD 'Pass the Jar' and was featured on a duet with Brown on the song 'Junk Yard'.

Aparo's new album, 'Life is a Flower; Life is a Gun' was released February 2018. Aparo is currently in development and slated to host a music reality TV show with Tim McGraw, entitled 'American B Sides'.
